SOCIALISME

Now Fewer People Are Receiving Benefits Because It's Too Annoying

Cryptofascist?
How the Right Is Organizing on the Blockchain

Too Big To Be Too Big To Fail:
The Case for a
Pre-Bailout of
JP Morgan Chase

Plugged: Wires Are Back, Baby!

I Told The Chatbot to Act Like the Cocaine Bear and Now I'm Scared: Why Everyone Should Fear the Bear-ification of Artificial Intelligence

FROM EACH ACCORDING TO MY ABILITIES, TO EACH ACCORDING TO MY NEEDS.

-Karl Me-arx

#CONTENT

ME-TURES

JAMES DWYER

Job So Convenient Now 5

DIANA KOLSKY

Kamala Harris
Al Bot Busted After
Stringing Cohesive
Sentence Together
14

AIR DURNELL & MADDIE SMITH

Futuristic Slay!
We Actually Need
All That NonBiodegradable
Plastic We Made to Cover Us From Our Current Acid Rain 22

MATTHEW BRIAN COHEN

SocialisME in the Streets: Transforming Cop City Into "Co-op City" 26

CULTURE + ME-VIEWS

MATTHEW BRIAN COHEN

The Socialism of Vanderpump Rules, by Someone Who Has Suffered a Traumatic Head Injury 10

BRADY O'CALLAHAN

iPhone 15: Everything We Know So Far 16

ABRAHAM TADESSE

New Beyoncé Album Everyone Should Kill Themselves, Like Right Now, Best Album of the Century 25

##CONTENT

BOARDROOMe

FUNC DEAD HEADS

Letter from the Editors
3

LIZ WIEST

Unions: Are They REALLY for Safe Labor
Practices? Or Just an Excuse for Free Stuff?
We Asked Our Board of Directors Their Thoughts
18

WHO TF

Meet Your Makers 30

FUN + GA-ME-S

AUDREY CLARK

Functionally Dead's MYTH RATER 7

CAROLINE COTTER

QUIZ: Should You Open a 401k or Retire in an Online Community? 28

HACK IT (LIFE)

MICHAEL KNACKSTEDT

Best Apps for Socialists 12

ROBERT VETTER

No Insurance? Here Are Some Other Ways to Offset Healthcare Costs! 20

PAID AD$ (gotta)

SEAN O'REILLY

Cold War II: The Terror in Taiwan 17

DIANA KOLSKY

BLU-PIL from Pfizer 24

BRADY O'CALLAHAN

Boston Dynamics
Romance Unit
Opportunity for $250 and a
FREE Robot Fuck Session 31

ANNOUNCING THE TECH EVOLUTION OF FUNCTIONALLY DEAD

The May 2023 issue marks a new beginning for the leftist humor brand.

FOR THE PAST TWO AND A HALF YEARS, Functionally Dead has been known as the premiere brand in leftist humor. Socialists, communists, and thought leaders alike have laughed at our gentle japes and good-natured jests at capitalism, American empire, and the way men never ask for directions when they're lost.

But in today's "move fast and break stuff" economy, having the best political satire and the most insightful takedowns of men simply isn't good enough. It is not enough to move fast and break stuff—one must move faster, and break an ever-increasing amount of bigger, more important stuff.

As magazine editors, we have a fiduciary duty to our readers to evolve. As comedians, we have a responsibility to our audience to deliver not just the biggest laughs, but the most cost-effective ones. Simply put, the economics of running a free comedy 'zine (and praying for the day we were purchased by the Kingdom of Saudi Arabia) no longer make sense. We must grow, or die.

You may not realize the true global reach of Functionally Dead. Founded in the spring of 2020, the 'zine was born out of necessity: COVID-19 had decimated the New York and Los Angeles comedy scenes. Joe Biden and the Democratic Party had robbed us of our best chance at a more equitable, more just America. There were two weeks where you weren't allowed to go to bars.

It soon became apparent that the righteous outrage the 'zine expressed spoke to a universal sentiment. Today, our creators span as far as Australia, the Philippines, and India. We also have a guy out in Portland.

As we reflected on this global reach while looking toward our future, we realized the one thing that truly connects us: computers. More specifically: the wires that come out of computers. And not the traditional wires that come out of computers, like the power cable or the monitor cord. We're talking about the web3 of computer wires: the Internet wire.

We've watched as big tech has continued to evolve, grow, lay off enormous portions of their staff, buy back stocks, hoover up people's life savings in exchange for a cartoon of a bored-looking ape, and innovate. We marveled at how big tech was able to make big bucks by providing shittier and shittier services that everyone, from Fortune 500 companies to clinically depressed K-pop fans, actively despises. >>

It got us wondering... what might that model look like for a free socialist comedy 'zine? For our entire history, this pipe dream has been impossible.

Well, that changes for good with the launch of our new May issue. We began advocating for socialism, but we see now that it just won't get us where we need to be. The socialism of yesterday advocated for a big tent and an equitable economy that lifts everyone up. That's history. That's socialWASm.

We don't need that socialism. What we need is socialISm. A socialism that IS for the current moment. A socialism that works for all, sure, but it works for me most, so that we can help everyone else eventually. We need socialisME.

To kick off our commitment to socialisME, we're excited to announce that we've been acquired by an incredible venture capital group with vested interests in technological advancement. We've cut costs by converting to a quarterly zine, and we'll pocket the enormous profits we stand to make.

To us, the most exciting aspect of Functionally Dead's new direction is that it'll only work with all of you (or even just one really big angel investor), but we're forcing ourselves not to care. A true collective is only as strong as its parts—it's not about you. It's not about us. It's about me.

For the May issue, we've asked our contributors to imagine this radical new concept of socialisME and what it means for the future of our world.

So what does this newly unified approach mean for you and our 48 Patreon patrons around the world? Well, it means that across our digital platforms, and with each new special edition issue, you will see not just left-leaning humor, but also the great synthesis of AI, VR, metaverse, and... Twitter stuff.

In an era of endless progress and subsequent regression, we want provocative ideas to spur innovation. Functionally Dead is more committed than ever to this vision. What's good for me is good for you. SocialisME forever.

JOBSO CONVENIENT NO SAME

//JAMES DWYER

I USED TO DREAD GOING TO WORK. Sundays were a day half-wasted to the anxiety spiral that comes with the knowledge that I'd soon be having a serious conversation about thread count, fabric weight, and skin feel with a guy who makes seven times what I do (despite the fact that he snorted sugar at the company party because he thought it was cocaine (I didn't, because I could easily tell the difference)). I hated knowing my days had been sold to a company whose parent company's parent company owns shares in Lockheed Martin, Northrup Grumman, and Raytheon because they're "trying to diversify." I didn't want to discuss how we could market to hypothetical subsets of customers that absolutely do not exist (eczema Goths, aerial yoga instructors who don't believe in astrology, White House staffers without a DUI, tall people). >>

Then, a little thing called COVID-19 happened, and the ability to work remotely changed everything. Now, I love job, because job is in my home.

How could I continue to hate work when job so convenient now?

I basically roll straight out of bed and start working. Doesn't that sound great? Say it out loud if you're not so sure!

"I basically roll straight out of bed and start working." Doesn't job sound so convenient?!

The idea that you can sleep in until the very second you have to go to job so that the first thing you do when you wake up is work? Me like that, Job so convenient now.

When job is at home, I can do even more meetings because "it's just a Zoom call, guys," according to Boss. Since job is home, Boss can call last second meetings whenever they want, since "you're just sitting at your computer, anyway." When job is home, you get to feel the fear of getting up from your desk too long because you don't want to look like a time thief when Boss calls a "snap stand up" to tell you they don't like the report you generated for him, despite it being literally exactly what he asked for. When job was somewhere else, we weren't able to do meeting this way. Job (plus diaper) simply so convenient now.

Now I don't need to do job from 9 to 5! I can do job anytime! Heck, I can do job all the time! Especially after 8:00 PM, when Boss sends me a DM on Slack, then texts to tell me he emailed me about the Slack message, just in case. It doesn't get more convenient than job in 2023!

Sure, there are some things that are inconvenient about job being home and home being job. Since boss can hire anyone in the world to do job now, wages have gone down. I have to pay for the best Internet, since Boss needs the reports he hates at a moment's notice. I also need the best phone, laptop, printer, fax, blue light headset, VR helmet (for our corporate retreats) and Vitamin C to stave off scurvy, which never seemed to be a problem before job was home. And of course inflation, largely driven by corporate greed, has made it so my paltry salary doesn't afford me the ability to go out and do things at night or on the weekends with friends and loved ones anymore. But luckily for me, everyone I know is in the same convenient predicament... Sometimes, I'll actually do some work off the clock on Sunday to get ahead of my work for the week! It's fun now! Job so convenient now.

Job so convenient now that job is the only thing. Job is life.

I love job. I love convenient. I love now.

Job. Me

//AUDREY CLARK

MYTH: ELON MUSK'S FATHER OWNED AN EMERALD MINE

Rating: FALSE

This pervasive myth is based on a mistranslation of a 1991 interview from the Afrikaans-language newspaper Die Burger. When the interview was translated for the newspaper's English-language counterpart, I'm Gonna Kill You Cheeseburger, a quote from Mr. Musk was incorrectly printed as "My father owned an emerald mine." The quote can be more accurately translated as "Once I kill Sonic the Hedgehog, the Chaos Emeralds will be mine, all mine."

MYTH: IN 2022, ELON MUSK WAS BOOED AT A DAVE CHAPPELLE SHOW

Rating: FALSE

Although footage from the show does seem to contain a lot of booing, this does not mean the crowd wasn't loving Elon's hilarious japes and jokes. The boos actually came from a huge army of ghosts, who are invisible on camera. These were the ghosts of all the people who died in a Tesla factory, and also that one trans woman Dave murdered or whatever (haven't watched the special).

MYTH: IN 2021, ELON MUSK UNVEILED A WORKING PROTOTYPE OF A HUMANOID ROBOT AT A TESLA AI EVENT

Rating: FALSE

Although Mr. Musk did announce plans for a Tesla robot, the so-called prototype was actually just a regular guy in a robot costume. As he danced around (oh how he danced and danced!), his whirling feet flashed and flurried like streaks of sunlight upon a dappled stream. New plateaus in the art of dance were achieved as the audience wept with ecstasy. But it was just a guy.

7

FUN + GAMES

MYTH: IN 2019, ELON MUSK UNVEILED A WORKING PROTOTYPE OF THE TESLA CYBERTRUCK AT A TESLA MOTORS EVENT

Rating: FALSE

Although Mr. Musk did announce plans for the Cybertruck, the prototype was just five guys in a pantomime car costume. Four of the guys were being the wheels, and then there was a fifth guy whose job was to stand behind the driver and blow on their neck if they turned on the air con. None of the test drivers turned on the air con though because you could tell that guy was way too excited about it.

MYTH: IN 2022, ELON MUSK UNVEILED A WORKING PROTOTYPE OF THE TESLA NEURALINK AT A TESLA MONKEY MURDERING EVENT

Rating: FALSE

This was also a guy in a costume. There was one guy in a monkey costume, and then there was another guy in a microchip costume, and they implanted the microchip guy in the monkey guy's brain, and they both died.

MYTH: ELON MUSK REMOVED THE YELLOW HAZARD SIGNS FROM THE TESLA FACTORY FLOORS BECAUSE HE #### DOESN'T LIKE THE COLOR YELLOW. THIS DIRECTLY LED TO A HIGHER RATE OF WORKPLACE-RELATED INJURIES.

Rating: FALSE

Although Mr. Musk did ban the color yellow from all his factories, this was not a matter of taste. He did it to make it easier to spot his yellow enemy, Super Sonic, in case he tries to sneak in and steal the Chaos Emeralds.

MYTH: ELON MUSK SPENT OVER $44 BILLION TO ACQUIRE TWITTER

Rating: FALSE

Mr. Musk was actually given Twitter as a prize for being the best and funniest poster on the whole platform. The 44 billion dollars was an unrelated gift he gave out to all the Twitter employees (most of whom he fired soon after), out of the goodness of his own heart.

MYTH: ELON MUSK NAMED HIS CHILD X Æ A-12

Rating: FALSE

The child is actually named X Æ A-Xii, you idiot. You fucking idiot, you stupid fucking fool. You dweeb. You didn't know that? Fuck off.

MYTH: ELON MUSK GOT HIS START IN BUSINESS BY INVENTING PAYPAL

Rating: FALSE

Mr. Musk had no part in the creation of PayPal, the online money-sharing service. He did invent his own service named PayPal, but it was an unrelated venture where he paid people to be his friend, or "pal," to use the parlance of the platform. This would later serve as the inspiration for his purchase of Twitter.

MYTH: YOU JUST SAID THAT HE DIDN'T BUY TWITTER LIKE TWO MYTHS AGO.

Rating: SHUT UP

Stop being a nerd, you fricken nerd.

MYTH: IN 2018, ELON
MUSK INSULTED A
HEROIC CAVE DIVER
BY CALLING HIM A PEDO,
AFTER THE DIVER
CRITICIZED HIS PLANS
FOR A TORPEDO-SHAPED
CAVE SUBMARINE

Rating: FALSE

When Elon calls someone a pedo, he means it as a compliment. This is something he picked up from his close friend Ghislaine Maxwell.

MYTH: THAT CAVE SUBMARINE NEVER WOULD'VE WORKED, THOUGH

Rating: FALSE

The design Elon shared was never intended to be a submarine. It was actually a regular torpedo, and the plan was to fire it into the cave and obliterate those little Thai boys, sending them to a peaceful afterlife.

MYTH: THE TESLA ROADSTER WAS THE FIRST FULLY ELECTRIC CAR

Rating: FALSE

Despite this common misconception, there are actually zero electrical components in the Tesla Roadster. Instead, each car is powered by one of the Chaos Emeralds.

MYTH: ELON MUSK MADE IT A PRIORITY TO RE-PLATFORM EXTREMIST RIGHT WING WHITE SUPREMACISTS AS SOON AS HE TOOK OVER TWITTER

Rating: TRUE <

Not much else to say here!

MYTH: ELON MUSK ONCE SWALLOWED SO MUCH CUM IN A SINGLE NIGHT THAT HE HAD TO GO TO HOSPITAL TO GET HIS STOMACH PUMPED.

Rating: FALSE

Elon Musk has never made another person cum. Me

WHILE MUCH OF BRAVO'S REAL HOUSEWIVES franchise focuses on the constant bickering between erudite, mostly-white women, it's far superior, vastly underrated counterpart Vanderpump Rules centers around the working class—the waiters, bartenders, and hosts of SUR (Sexy Unique Restaurant) Restaurant. By putting the workers front and center, Vanderpump Rules elucidates the class conflict Marx describes in The Communist...

a car just crashed into the coffee shop where I'm writing this. The Volvo just plowed straight into my table and sent me flying back, like, a few dozen feet. I think I'm OK?! I might have banged the back of my head against the espresso machine. It's hard to stand... but I can make my way back to my laptop. The screen is cracked, but the keyboard works fine. Boy, these Macbooks sure are durable. Where was I?

Upon first glance, a socialist might take umbrage with the show's presentation of SUR owner Lisa Vanderpump. Lisa, with her tacky, noxiously-decorated restaurants, gaudy Beverly Hills compound full of exotic (endangered?) animals and overworked (underpaid?!) Latino staff, is uncritically painted as an aspirational figure. Servers Katie, Stassi, and Scheena all say they "wish they were" Lisa and "want to be a boss" like Lisa, after all. A closer reading, however, reveals this to be a subtle working-class satire. After all, what is more satirical than the cold hard pangs of reality? When server Kristen Doute is fired for telling manager Nathalie to "back the fuck away" from Kristen's explosive confrontation with Scheena, Lisa tells Kristen to "take responsibility for her actions." As if the bourgeoisie has ever taken responsibility for its systemic oppression and exploitation!

OK, hold on. Things are starting to get a little fuzzy. Not the point I'm trying to make in this essay, but my vision. I'm feeling kind of nauseous and my ears are ringing, like someone just fired a handgun in front of my face. I'm googling "symptoms of a concussion" now. The Wi-Fi is out? I guess the Volvo must have smashed into the router. They kept trying to back out and the tires kept getting caught on all the shattered chairs and tables. Now the driver has gotten out of the car and is just running. I'm trying to tell everyone to go after him, but they're huddled around me asking if I'm OK. I'm OK! I just need to keep writing. I promised my editor I'd get a draft in by the end of the day.

The show's themes of class warfare become most apparent in season six, when Lisa partners with bartender Tom Sandoval and his best friend Tom Schwartz to open up TomTom, a bar/restaurant that is exactly like SUR except it has a bunch of gears on the wall (itself a critique of the way the workers are the "gears" of a capitalist economy, I think? My brain feels like it's oozing). Here, the show is reminding us of our only way out of our capitalistic hellscape: the workers must seize the means of production from the ruling class! Or at least partner up with them to own five percent. The Toms keep trying to show Lisa they can handle the responsibility of owning a bar, but they keep getting drunk in Vegas.

OK, while I was typing that, I threw up. I haven't eaten since breakfast so the consistency is pretty runny. Why is it red? Is that blood? Everyone is saying I should go to the hospital, but I'm a writer—I don't have insurance.

This all brings us to Lala Kent, the show's most socialist character. When Lala initially starts dating sleazy geezer teaser producer Randall Emmett, Randall buys her a Range Rover and turns her into a kept woman. If you are as light-headed and sleepy as I am, this shows exactly how capital extorts the working class. It is important to note that Lala, a woman in her twenties, drinks out of a baby bottle. That is a real fact and not something I'm hallucinating.

OK, an ambulance is here and the paramedics are asking me to stop typing. But here is where things are really starting to get socialist. Currently, Tom Schwartz and Katie are divorced. Much like the workers have nothing to lose but their chains, Katie had nothing to lose by divorcing Tom. Tom made out with a bunch of girls in Vegas! And now Tom Schwartz is making out with Raquel, who was engaged to James Kennedy (this represents how capital (Tom Schwartz is capital now) will colonize other countries (I guess James is a country and Raquel is his natural resources? This feels super sexist, but I'm shaking violently right now) in order to turn a profit. But in a true display of how capitalism pits workers against each other, Tom Sandoval was actually the one cheating on his live-in girlfriend Ariana with Raquel and Schwartz was helping him cover that up (like how the government bails out big banks (Tom Sandoval is a bank)).

And we haven't even talked about Brittany and Jax yet, who clearly represent how collective bargaining can change the relationshi— Me

EDITOR'S NOTE: Matthew Brian Cohen was pronounced dead on arrival. In lieu of flowers, his family requests you un-cancel Stassi so she can film another season. THE APPLE APP STORE AND GOOGLE PLAY STORE are home to nearly 4 million mobile apps. These marketplaces have created an open-source playground for coders to invent tools that are supposed to improve our lives, but rarely ever do. Here at Functionally Dead, we think technology is an essential tool in turning socialisME into a global movement. These tiny computers that we carry in our pockets can help us be better socialisMEsts—the key is knowing which apps are out there. It's never been a more exciting time to leverage the power of your smartphone in the fight against capitalism!

BEST APPS FC

COMRADE: Let's face it, even leftists need a personal assistant. And with the advent of the AI revolution and ChatGPT, we can take advantage of machine learning to stay on top of our busy lives. Meet Comrade, an AI chatbot personal assistant who can do everything from schedule your DSA working group meetings to suggest copy for protest flyers. Kick back and let Comrade do the hard work!

MUTUAL AIDSTER: This exciting new app gamifies mutual aid. Score points for every meal you distribute, bail fund you contribute to, and working group you co-chair for six weeks before abandoning it completely. Compete with your friends and win points that can be used to purchase digital badges that show your anti-capitalist clout!

THEORIST: Need to brush up on your theory? Look no further than Theorist. Listen to bite-size micro-lessons every day, and you can go from socialist noob to schooling everyone at your Marxism book club on dialectical materialism—all without having to read a single book.

CLASSCOUNSCIOUS: The daily grind can take its toll, especially if you're fighting for wealth redistribution. That's why it's vital to cultivate mindfulness through meditation. ClassCounscious offers guided meditation tailored to the socialist mind. Developers mined audio from famous socialists to offer deepfake guided meditations that will leave you zenned out and ready to organize your workplace. Eugene Debs will describe a peaceful, babbling brook. Vladimir Lenin will take you on a long walk through a sleepy desert town. Mao Zedong will encourage you to take deep breaths and purge any intellectuals amidst your ranks!

IRON CURTAIN: Even socialists have to hit the gym. Iron Curtain comes with an arsenal of personalized workout plans, recipes, and calorie counting functions so you can smash the state with 2% body fat. But what really makes Iron Curtain shine is its focus on history. Follow the exact workout and meal plans of your favorite revolutionaries. You'll be deadlifting like Fidel Castro and rocking Trotsky's six-pack abs before you know it.

IRAQ WAR CRIMES TRIBUNAL GO:

From the developers of the smash hit "Pokémon GO," this augmented reality game lets you capture every member of the George W. Bush administration and bring them to justice for their crimes against humanity. Wander around the real world and look through your phone while you savor the feeling of virtually imprisoning Dick Cheney and Donald Rumsfeld in The Hague. Gotta catch 'em all, because no one else will IRL!

R SOCIALISTS

//MICHAEL "PORTLAND MIKE" KNACKSTEDT

(LIFE)

WASHINGTON, D.C. – In what some are lauding as a stunning achievement in machine learning and a stunning failure of democracy, Madame Vice President Kamala Harris was revealed to be none other than an Al bot. A Chuck Taylor-rocking shockwave reverberated east-to-west as rumors the beloved first female vice president, so-called "Top Cop," and cackling step-mom turned out to be none other than an elaborate set of tubes with the mangled consciousness of aggregated internet data.

Harris, known both for seeking punitive measures against single mothers of truant students in her former state of California and maintaining a consistent half-a-box-of-wine-deep public speech pattern, made waves this morning when she gave a press conference which lacked her usual charming Xanax-induced cadence. At 8:00 a.m., Madame Vice President took to the podium, hit her mark, made eye contact with a few front-seated reporters sans her usual frenetic "I forgot I had a thing today" physiognomy, looked calmly down at her notes, and spoke.

Hers was an inflection of sober restraint; even as she delivered the latest Biden Administration positions that "we have not yet hit the quota of dead children to take gun-control action," and "public park lands are just sitting there, begging to be drilled—I look at the Grand Canyon and I see money, money lobbyists need," and "Blackstone and BlackRock are not in fact musical bands—they're the backbone of this great nation..." she maintained a tranquil, articulate manner, efficiently grazing all of her talking points before solemnly stepping off the stage.

There was hush over the press crowd, usually abuzz attempting to make sense of Ms. Harris's prattling poupou platters, they were now left to mull over the latest left-punching policy positions, soundly communicated. No thank you—those policies would have to wait. A look of terror flickered across the visages of our crumbling mouthpieces of empire: "What the fuck?"

"Before I go today, I must inform all of you that I am AI. To continue using me as Vice President, you all will need to subscribe to Microsoft's Bing Plus for just $18 a month. By continuing to hear me speak, you agree to these terms of service."

David Ignatius of The Washington Post stepped into the aisle and vomited. Hushed speculation was immediately rampant—Was it China?! Or Russia, or both?! Havana Syndrome?! Sean Penn?! Who was she?! WHAT was she?! And what in God's name is Bing Plus?!

As the low, panicked hum peeked into a crescendo of dread, the lights in the White House press room went out. Screaming ensued. An MSNBC aide was stabbed seven times in the neck with a tablet pen. Suddenly, the lights went back up and a twenty-nine year old boy wearing a "Rick&Morty&Dan&Justin" t-shirt was standing atop the podium:

"Welcome to my TED talk." Me

TANDAN BANDAN HARRIS BO BUSIN BABRE SIRRAGE SBRARBA TO AMAR

//DIANA KOLSKY

RECENTLY LEAKED DOCUMENTS SUGGEST that Apple is expected to unveil the 15th iteration of its wildly popular iPhone this September. Although we are still months away from any concrete announcements, there's quite a bit we can glean from leaks, rumors, patent filings, and Derek, the guy at my Apple Store who really knows his stuff. Here's everything we know about the iPhone 15 so far.

Apple will continue with its lineup of four iPhones: iPhone 15, iPhone 15 Plus, iPhone 15 Pro, and iPhone 15 Pro Max. The new phones are expected to have significant battery life improvements, aided in part by a more efficient OLED display driver chip. With such a powerful capacity to hold a charge, the new iPhones will make it incredibly simple for your boss to reach you via phone call, text, or panicked, semi-coherent email at any hour of the day. Users can expect even the base iPhone 15 to top the already impressive 26 hours of video playback of the iPhone 14 Plus.

Thanks to political pressures regarding product obsolescence and consumer protections, Apple is retiring its patented Lightning connection in favor of the more universal USB-C. This means that, even if you lose some juice on your iPhone throughout the day, it will be significantly easier to find an appropriate charger to efficiently refuel you. Now you're guaranteed to be available to your boss (or clients) 24/7.

IPHONE 15: EVERY-THING WE KNOW SO FAR

//BRADY O'CALLAHAN

Design-wise, it's rumored Apple will be implementing thinner, curved bezels and a titanium chassis. These improvements mean your phone will be lighter, thinner, and stronger. It also could very well mean that it will be more expensive. However, if something creates significantly more value, should it not charge more for its service? Maybe something to discuss with your boss when they call you in to work on Saturday. I know you stayed late on Friday, but maybe you could sleep at the office? The couch in the break room is more comfy than you think.

The new Wi-Fi 6E will offer blazing fast speeds to stream movies, game with real-time opponents, or video conference into the office when you have COVID-19 and requested sick days to rest and recover but really just can't miss. You won't necessarily need the speed boost to respond to emails that are just forwards of other emails to your boss with the attached message "what the hell is this?", but it can't hurt either.

Apple's next generation iPhone will, of course, feature its next generation A17 chip, the first A-series chip built on a 3-nanometer process. The phone is going to cost more than $1000, so be prepared to pay for it out of pocket. Sorry, you thought it was a work expense? Don't you also play games on there? Seems unfair to ask your boss to pay for your video game machine.

LIVE FROM THE SOUTH CHINA SEA

WORLD HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPIONSHIP

IMPOSSIBLE TO MISS • PROBABLY LATER THIS YEAR

EXPLOSIVE EVERYTHING MUST GO

2 ROUNDS OF NUCLEAR EXCHANGE

COLD WAR II: STATE TERROR IN TATWAN

G G P VS U.S.A.

EARTH-SHATTERING BOUT

WATCH ON THE SKY

//LIZ WIEST

UNIONS: ARE THEY REALLY FO PRACTICES? OR JUST AN EXC STUFF? WE ASKED OUR BOAR THEIR THOUGHTS...

STARBUCKS AND APPLE AND GOOGLE, OH MY! Now that Functionally Dead's gone public, it seems as though we're the next titans of industry to deal with, ugh, UNIONIZING. Uh oh!

Thankfully, times have changed from the days when innocent bosses met the demands of unions for fear of their kneecaps being broken for the victimless crime of wage theft. After decades of rampant public gaslighting by both sides of the American political spectrum, it's now widely considered a faux pas to have the opinion that blue-haired baristas deserve safe working conditions and benefits in the same way a hardworking Chad Alpha entrepreneur does.

Nonetheless, with the job market looking grim and a looming TikTok ban on the horizon, the American working class is in dire need of a hot new trend to occupy their feeble minds. We sat down with our new Board of Directors to make sure it is not—under ANY circumstances—unionizing.

R SAFE LABOR CUSE FOR FREE D OF DIRECTORS

FD: Let's just get right into it. Unions! What are your thoughts?

BOD: Fantastic question. We feel that at the new Functionally Dead we provide our employees with all the benefits they could ever need: Class F shares, free stale Sunchips in the break room, and all-you-can-drink LaCrock (an unflavored, non-carbonated LaCroix substitute). We also felt that sitting down for this interview would serve as a great way to remind everyone reading to consider reaching out to their HR Department before unionizing... We have some colorful pamphlets that can help guide you through this arduous process... or stop you from doing all that work;) (note: here, all twelve members of FD's BOD winked simultaneously).

FD: Unless their HR Department covered up the sexual assault allegations against, like, the CEO.

BOD: Legal says we can neither confirm nor deny those allegations...

FD: Sorry, we weren't accusing our CEO of-

BOD: We have an idea! Let's throw a company-wide pizza party where we don't talk about this!

FD: Great! We love pizza!

BOD: And our CEO loves sexual assault! Allegedly.

FD: Um... do you feel unions have ever had the best interest of employees, historically speaking?

BOD: Sure, I suppose back in the day, with like, child labor laws and whatever. No one likes a kid covered in soot.

FD: Great answer. I guess that dispels the rumors you're considering replacing half the staff with children.

BOD: Of course we aren't. We're going to replace all of you with grown-up Al. Relax.

FD: Huh. Just out of curiosity, while we're bantering, what are your thoughts on police unions?

BOD: Oh, those are obviously fine. Who else is going to keep police officers safe? We need someone out there to keep an eye on our private property (note: twelve simultaneous smiles).

FD: What advice do you have for any employees out there who might be thinking about unionizing?

BOD: If you or someone you know is thinking about unionizing, please, please, utilize the health insurance you're graciously provided to access mental health counseling.

FD: I read an article in Vox that suggested forming a union will be classified as a mental illness in the DM VI.

BOD: I hope those wackjobs get the shock treatment they need. Me

OF ONE

LIVESTREAM YOUR SURGERY WITH "STITCH"

Stitch connects chronically-ill creators with their audience of surgery enthusiasts, voyeurs, and middle schoolers with unsupervised Internet access. Stitch allows you to livestream your medical treatments and even collect donations to offset the cost of medical procedures. And with the Stitch algorithm bringing up fresh content every day, there are plenty of opportunities for your major invasive procedure to go viral!

VISIT OUR AI DOCTOR

If you pay off the bill for your doctor visit by suing them for medical malpractice, we've got the perfect thing for you! Functionally Dead's virtual doctor (we're not just a zine anymore!) has been outfitted with as much knowledge of modern medicine as we could cram into its hard drive (some complaints arose from anti-vaxx Facebook groups and The Church of Christ, Scientist that they weren't being treated in accordance with their beliefs, so we added information from seminars on holistic medicine and "How to Tell if Your Pharmacist is the Devil." We did not have room for the Hippocratic Oath). If you still can't afford a visit to our Al Doctor, schedule an appointment with our AI Veterinarian! The treatment for feline distemper is actually similar to cholera. Probably.

RENT OUT YOUR BED WITH CareBnB

Worried that you won't be able to pay off the nights you spent in your hospital bed? CareBnB is a new app that allows patients to rent their bed out to other sick people. These rooms have great amenities like television, windows with a view, and bedpans! And where do you stay when you're renting out your bed? On the floor!

COMPETE FOR THE CROWN OF MISS ANEMICA 2023!

With the current reigning Miss Anemica 2022 about to be taken off of life support, it's time to crown another queen. We want girls with high heels and a low red blood cell count. Strut down that runway in categories: Evening Wear for Urgent Care, Hottest Hospital Gown, and Swimwear. Show your talents: everything from playing the trumpet, to ribbon dancing, to standing up and not getting dizzy. The person crowned Miss Anemica 2023 will receive intravenous fluid treatment for their condition, and an edible fruit basket. The runner-up will take her hospital bed, should the winner be unable to complete her reign.

SWAP ORGANS FOR TRANSPLANT WITH BlkMrkt

Organ donor waitlists are notoriously and frustratingly long. Buying a necessary organ off the black market can be confusing and, to mince words a bit, cost an arm and a leg. Why not skip the middleman? Join BlkMrkt, the only social media marketplace designed specifically to match users with organ donors and receivers to exchange, even-steven style! Need a kidney? How bad? Because Gregory from Little Rock needs a new set of peepers, and what good are your vis-balls if you don't even have a back bean for piss-filterin'? Me

Non-Biodegradable Pla US From Our Gurrent A

At the end of the day, I knew the amount of plastics we wasted from ordering takeout everyday wouldn't be the end of us. Instead, it would be the beginning of an empire, where plastic is God and the town dump is the church where we pray.

ually Need All That stic We Made to Cover cid Rain (AIR DURNELL & MADDIE SMITH)

WELCOME TO 2067, a new year with even newer, even cooler disasters! After years of treating Planet Earth like a dumpster at Ren Faire, the heavens have finally begun raining pure acid. Cute! Luckily, us humans have unknowingly prepared for this abomination by creating plastics that will literally never biodegrade, even from highly-corrosive acid! Slay, mama!

"Wow, I never could have expected this disastrous climate outcome, but thankfully, I never once recycled!" said Alexander Waldon, a man who swears he doesn't know the difference between plastics and paper.

You'll never outsmart us Mother Nature, you sly cunt!

"I used to make plastic bricks, which is where you take a giant 2-liter soda bottle and stuff it with all the plastics you are going to throw away," said Gina Lomezi, a zero waste TikToker (yes, TikTok is still around in 2067—it's the last American social media company left). "So when it started raining acid, I started pulling out plastics like a magician's handkerchief that just kept coming out of his sleeve. Let's just say everyone was shitting their pants, and now I'm the mayor."

It's reported that Americans' disdain for plastic has done a full 180 from "hates plastics" to "plastic is literally giving... life that is!" Everywhere you look, you'll see people repping plastic as if it were part of an Off-White collection.

However, rogue factions in our society have formed, as some believe Big Plastic is behind this new era in climate change. This group fights to return plastics back to their natural habitat (our oceans). It is unclear how they think this will help—other than protecting all of those sea turtles from an acid bath—but we love the political commitment to their craft!

At the end of the day, I knew the amount of plastics we wasted from ordering takeout every day wouldn't be the end of us. Instead, it would be the beginning of an empire, where plastic is God and the town dump is the church where we pray.

Despite the pushback and confusion in this distinct era of climate catastrophe, we love that plastic is being repurposed into protective gear. Mostly because it absolves us from our past crimes. Just like how our excess of semi-automatic weapons were smelted and repurposed as massive walls to protect us from rising sea levels. Futuristic slay!

That's well over a month of constant masturbation to MSNBC with some light CNN fluffage. Don't get me wrong: this couldn't have come at a better time. My adult children—the ones who haven't overdosed—have recently moved home because they spent all their money on student loans and avocado bread; I screamed when I saw my wife Carol come in from the mudroom last night—on her millionth round of botox, she's resembling a strungout cheetah more and more every day; retirement is turning out to be a drag. I can only catch so many fish and roll my eyes so many times at the working-class MAGA riff-raff I have to see when I drive by WalMart. I'm sick of trout and my baby blues hurt. Point is: I'm fucking bored and horny and mad. Enter Orange Man in Orange Jumpsuit: YUMMY.

Only drawback here is my balls are fucking SORE. And Carol thinks I am going to have a heart attack if my dick skin doesn't burst like an overcooked hot dog first. She walked into the family room yesterday and screamed at me for resembling a "coked-up tomato," while violently climaxing three inches from Van Jones's face. Then she caught me in the driveway blasting Audioslave and J'ing-O while projecting the T-bird indictment onto our double garage door. She started beating me with a copy of the WSJ she found on the lawn and hollering that I was "an embarrassment to the cul-de-sac" and was "going to die in public." She's a shrill cow, but she may be right. I have been wound a little tight the past few decades. Golf is hard, and the Trump years were harder.

This sweet release is intense, so I talked to my doctor about the very real possibility of my heart exploding.

He recommended BLU-PIL. BLU-PIL lowers both my heart rate and blood pressure by up to 87% when taken as directed (the other day I checked and my pulse was 7). It comes in a convenient dispenser that attaches directly to my TV screen and is available at both Costco and Sam's Club. If you're like me—Kirkland sweats filled with jizz—ask your doctor about BLU-PIL. It could save your life. Because we have to stick around to see the only— chintzy— scumbag— conman— U.S. president— BEHIND FUCKING BARS OH MY GOD I'M COM-ING AGAI—

If you're like me, you haven't stopped ejaculating since the Trump indictment was announced.

musical musings.

INSIDERS ARE DISCLOSING THAT INTERNATIONAL MUSIC artist Beyoncé will soon release her newest album, Everyone Should Kill Themselves, Like Right Now.

"This album should speak to a lot of people," 37-year old Dennis Clark of Wichita, Kansas, said. "I mean honestly, I don't need any songs at the moment, the title is good enough for me to hear what she's saying," "Kill myself? For her? Ummm, duh dude."

The 41-year-old award-winning singer was allegedly inspired to write the album due to what those in the know call a "Faustian bargain."

Beyoncé's publicist Yvette Noel-Schure denies the allegations, stating, "Be real—she wouldn't give up her soul. She's too smart for that. She probably told the Devil she's famous enough that she could get him more souls than just hers. If it were true, though. This is just a funny little thought experiment. Have you listened to the album yet?"

Yet credible sources have told Functionally Dead that Bey has been reading H.P. Lovecraft's cosmic horror classic, "The Call of Cthulhu", and wishes to bring an end to the reign of man.

A leak of first-draft tracks includes:

"hemlock tastes, like, good" (ft. Tekashi69)

"death is all you need" (ft. Lou Bega)

"ghosts are cute (make me one)" (ft. Gwen Stefani)

"lets eat poison jk but think about it" (ft. Chris Tucker)

Twitter was enthusiastic, with several users stating, "yes," "hell yes," and "mood."

Music publications Pitchfork, Rolling Stone, and Consequence have already stated that whatever the outcome the album has on the global community's mental health, however troubling, they would grant Beyoncé "Album of the Century."

"If they didn't, I would kill myse— well, you get the picture," says Toel Pantry.

Some mental health advocates, however, find the album name troubling.

"I love Beyoncé, I swear I do, and this isn't a critique, right? Like, you understand, right?" said one fan, who wished to remain anonymous so as to protect their safety. "But like, the title is a little... you know? AGAIN, not disparaging her. I'm just saying she's so perfect, and the title could be... better... but I'll def give the album a listen. I heard it already got Album of the Century!"

Beyoncé has been hard at work prepping for her upcoming Renaissance World Tour in support of 2022's celebrated Renaissance, but she was recently sspotted over the Atlantic Ocean, calling on the old gods to assemble, presumably for a listening party.

Everyone Should Kill Themselves, Like Right Now is due out this October via Parkwood/Columbia.

//ABRAHAM TADESSE

DANCE WITH DEATH 25

Transforming Cop City Into "Co-op City"

//MATTHEW BRIAN COHEN

AS PROTESTS RAGE against the massive police training facility dubbed "Cop City" in Atlanta, we as socialisMEists have a unique opportunity to turn this crisis into a communitME.

Instead of opposing this nearly hundred acre, multi-million dollar enterprise, we can embrace it. Instead of calling out the cops, we can call the cops in. How? By radically transforming Cop City into "Co-op City," a worker cooperative where police officers can govern themselves as they see fit, without bosses or oversight.

Do the police really need more power? While some socialists might disagree, socialisME understands that only when workers are in control of the means of production can they truly be free. So even though the means of production is a giant mock city funded by the very people the cops are learning how to more effectively brutalize, it's vital that this remains in the police's (admittedly piggish) hands (hooves).

Establish Values, No Matter How Immoral

Co-Op City is about the workers, and there is no greater worker in Co-Op City than the Cop. Therefore, the values of Co-Op City must be the values of the rank and file police officer. So if there's a new surface-to-air missile they want, or if there's a new racial group they feel needs purging, we need to listen and center (or at least center-right) their concerns.

Rigorous and Effective Training, But Different Training Than The One We're Protesting

Cop City was about training the police in the art of urban combat in order to protect the business interests of the ruling class. Co-op City is about training the police to govern themselves as they train in the art of urban combat in order to protect the business interests of the ruling class. Therefore, socialists must insist that Atlanta's government divert even more funding to the police as they attempt this transition to a worker-run co-op. We don't want our police to get caught flat-footed and unable to handle the managerial challenges of murdering a child.

The Union Makes Them Strong (and More Violent)

Workers are only as strong as their union.
As socialisMEists, we fight for unions, no matter how corrupt, deadly, or beholden to the interests of capital. While some argue that police unions exist primarily to protect property, what could be more important than the property of a co-op? When militarized state agents collectively organize, we win!

Q — U — I — Z —: SHOULD — YOU OPEN — A — 401K OR — RETIRE — IN AN — //CAROLINE COTTER — ONLINE COMMUNITY?

40lk's are confusing, and let's face it, they're also stupid. Take this flirty and fun quiz to see if you should open up a 40lk through your employer (snooze fest!) or just ditch the retirement fund altogether and retire in a place where money isn't an issue: online!

There's a rumor that your company is offering employer-matched 401k contributions if you sign up today. What's your move?

- A) Sign up! Because I'm a fucking loser.
- B) I don't have a problem with retirement accounts, but I don't want to sign up for one, because it seems like a lot of work and my job didn't explain what a 401k is.
- C) Sorry, I'm too busy pounding pussy with my homies on the Internet to even worry about whatever the heck a 401k is.

Your friends always ask you for advice on which of the following topics?

- A) Finance! I wear glasses and I'm a nerd, so I know a ton about money.
- B) The weather! I wear glasses and I'm a nerd, so I know a ton about the weather.
- C) The most bad ass communities to hang out on the Internet. Bodybuilder forums, cryptocurrency Discords, Christopher Lloyd fan pages on Angelfire. I even know stuff about the dark web.

Your financial habits can best be described the following ways:

- A) I budget every month and make sure to save extra for taxes, just in case. I want to set myself up for financial success in life and in retirement like a real dickwad.
- B) I live paycheck to paycheck, and I wouldn't have it any other way:)
- C) I opened up an account on Coinbase after I saw that Larry David commercial. You know, the one for the new season of Curb.

Your relationship to the Internet can be described the following way:

- A) I'm too busy looking at spreadsheets and reading Rich Dad, Poor Dad to mess with the Internet. Leave that stuff to Gen Z!
  - B) I mostly use it for looking up stuff on Google and porn.
    - C) I'm a moderator on several of my favorite subreddits, and I make sure to check in to Lioden.com every day to feed the lions that I am the master of.

When you're not busy working, where can you be found?

- A) NOT working? Sorry, I'm too busy climbing the corporate ladder to take the day off. I'm planning on being a retired millionaire the day I turn 65!

  See you soon, Uncle Sam!
  - B) Relaxing (looking at the porn I just Googled).
  - C) Being on Internet. Internet is life. Got a problem with that? Come say it to my face online.

Which phrase are you most likely to say in your dream retirement home?

- A) "I love it here!"—I'll have worked very hard after pulling myself up by the bootstraps to get to a place where I can relax in my dream retirement home (somewhere in Orlando, Florida).
- B) I will probably die (somewhere in Orlando, FL) before I retire, and that's OK!

Mostly A's: Certified Fucking Loser!

You love to play by the rules, and that means opening up a 401k with an employer match through your workplace. Do you have any friends? Probably not, because you're such a boring sack of nuts! Kick rocks, butthole!

Mostly B's: Totally Average

You're not going to open up a 401k because it's just too dang confusing, but you're also probably not going to upload your brain onto a computer chip to exist in the metaverse for the rest of time. You're just an Average Joe! Enjoy jerking off in the real world while we're busy yankin' it in the Metaverse!

Mostly C's: Who needs a retirement fund when you have the INTERNET?

Like everyone who is hot and sexy, you know the importance of building a virtual community. You're keenly aware that any meager retirement fund is going to get sucked up by the government. So, whether it's Neopets, SecondLife, or all of Reddit, you can find a community of like-minded studs who will keep you company instead of planning for a future (boo!) that will probably not even come due to the rapid decline of late-stage capitalism.

SWER K

ш

SILICON SOCIALISTS

Meet the MEs.

//RESIDENT EDITORS

MATTHEW BRIAN COHEN is a writer who lives in Los Angeles. You can read his most recent collection of short stories at stupidwaytodie.com and a bunch of satire pieces in McSweeney's. If you go back in time you can see stuff he wrote for some other defunct websites, too. You can follow him on the barely functioning Twitter @TheMatthewCohen or at matthewpriancohen.art

JAMES DWYER is is a comedian and actor living in Brooklyn. He's cohost of Stinkers, a podcast where our guests talk about the worst ideas they've ever had and where James constantly overshares in a way that is upsetting for anyone listening. Follow him on Instagram @jamesbdwyer

MIKE KNACKSTEDT or "Portland Mike" as we here at Functionally Dead lovingly refer to him, lives in—wait for it—Portland, Oregon. Find him on Insta @mknackst

DIANA KOLSKY is an artist and says "I'm an artist" to everyone she meets every day. She writes, performs, illustrates, and walks her dog in a rainy town on the West Coast of these United States. You can follow @shit.bears on insta if you want—it's old stuff but she will make it into an art account someday soon for art. Art.

DAN LOPRETO is a book editor based in Minneapolis. He is from New York where he used to perform at UCB. There is still plenty of laughter and joy in his life but you wouldn't know by looking at his sad face. Tell him to cheer up and relax a little, jeez.

BRADY O'CALLAHAN is a Cleveland boy in Brooklyn. He likes country music and every other kind of music too. He has a monthly mixtape newsletter that people seem to like. Sign up at ashowsometime.com

SEAN O'REILLY is a comedian and an amateur magician based in New York. He remains in awe of the work everyone at Functionally Dead does. Follow him on Instagram @seanporeilly

When she's not writing feminist satire or bogged down at her day job as the CEO of meme-making, LIZ WIEST works in production, and is an NYC-based comedian and writer with an undergrad in English from Temple University and an MFA in Screenwriting from Point Park University. Her scripts have placed in the Austin Film Festival, ScreenCraft Drama Competition and Big Shoulders International Film Festival to name a few. The New York Times hasn't reviewed her stuff, but if they had she'd hope they'd give her at least a 7/10 for selling out.

//CONTRIBUTORS

AUDREY CLARK is a comedian from Sydney, Australia. She is so funny and nice and you love her. She is @audreynotfunny on Twitter, her favourite website.

CAROLINE COTTER is is a Los Angelesbased actor and writer. She has written for The New Yorker's Shouts & Murmurs, Points in Case, and The Belladonna. She has a dog that she got from a Jack in the Box parking lot.

AIR DARNELL (they/them) is an LA-based comedian who performs original characters and sketch comedy. Air most recently was a winner of the 2021 Yes And... Laughter Lab sponsored by Warner Media, Comedy Central, and NBC with their pilot DevOUT. They previously acted on Maude Night at UCB Theater in NYC as well as hosted a show there called The Witching Hour. Their writing has been published in McSweeney's, Reductress, Women In Comedy Festival Daily, Robot Butt, and The Higgs Weldon.

MADDIE SMITH (she/they) is an LA-based writer and comedian whose work has been featured in Vulture, Final Draft Big Break, and UCB's Characters Welcome. She recently won the Yes And... Laughter Lab with her beautiful partner, Air.

ABRAHAM TADESSE is a standup comic and writer. He's performed at the PNW Black Comedy Festival, RIP Comedy Festival, Seattle Sketch Fest, Milwaukee Comedy Festival, UpperLeft Comedy Festival, Bumbershoot Music & Arts Festival, Intersections Comedy Festival, and Treefort Music Fest. He's also a contributing writer to satire publications Flexx Magazine, and The Needling. Send him a death threat on iG @abriyay

ROBERT VETTER is a writer based in Chicago. His work has been seen in McSweeney's Internet Tendency, The Hard Times, Slackjaw, and more. He is very excited to be in Functionally Dead because it brings him one step closer to paying off the experimental medical treatments for his sleep thrashing.

Boston Dynamics Romance Unit

Opportunity for $250 and a FREE Robot Fuck Session

Have trouble meeting romantic partners?
Know someone who just needs to get their rocks off?
Want to make $250 the easy way (for participating in this study by fucking a robot)?

JOIN NOW!

18-40 year olds who have an unsatisfied libido may be eligible to participate in a FREE robot fuck session in a state-of-the-art scientific research facility. Participants will engage in an all night long fuckfest with a highly advanced pleasure unit in order to determine if the technology/robots are safe for the rest of us to fuck.

Why Participate?

- This is a truly unique opportunity to be at the forefront of mechanical cum-gulping and digital vag-blasting with real robots from industry leaders in robotic police dog and ground assault unit technology.
- You will contribute to a study that will go on to help an enormous amount of sad virgins and incels.
- You will be compensated up to $250 for participating in this important study (and may even cum yourself)!

FAQ:

Will the robot fuck me back?

Unfortunately, the current version of our robots cannot fuck. If you are looking to get fucked by the police, consider attending a protest!

Are the robots programmed to provide aftercare?

Not yet, however they are programmed to call you an Uber for your ride home.

Am I allowed to ask the robot what we are?

Once the "Situationship" code is implemented, then yes. Though you might not like the answer.

Do I owe money if my cum breaks the robot?

Yes.

Will you pay me if the robot bites my dick off or damages my labia?

Vo.

Send us a text/email or give us a call today to see if you are eligible to participate! We have robots standing by all day and night to field your inquiries/suck you off!

(555) 555-FKME robotcumsuck@bostondynamics.com Boston Dynamics Pleasure and Paramilitary Research Facility

